

Inglewood Basketball and Entertainment Center

One of the most environmentally-friendly sports venues in California history is coming to Inglewood!

The LA Clippers are committed to respecting and boosting our Inglewood community through environmental stewardship, job creation and a $100 million community benefits package that includes funds for affordable housing.

Both Gov. Gavin Newsom and the California Air Resources Board — one of the toughest environmental regulatory agencies in the country — have certified that this state-of-the-art arena project will be “net zero” for greenhouse gases.

Environmental sustainability is a key part of the project’s design.

The LEED Gold-certified arena will also feature unprecedented environmental benefits for the Inglewood community:

- 1 million on-site kilowatt hours a year produced from rooftop solar panels
- Water savings of at least 40%
- ZERO-Waste Program with recycling and composting
- 330 on-site electrical vehicle chargers

The benefits of this project won’t be limited just to the site at Century Boulevard and Prairie Avenue. Around the City, the project team will also provide:

- 1,000 new electric vehicle home chargers for Inglewood area residents
- Two new zero emission buses for the local transit system
- Ten new zero emission cars or vans to upgrade the Inglewood municipal fleet vehicles
- 1,000 new trees planted in Inglewood

All of this means cleaner air and a healthy community for our families.

The fact that this arena will meet landmark environmental standards is another sign that the LA Clippers are committed to Inglewood and determined to be good neighbors.

This is a win for Inglewood!

###