Los Angeles Mayor Tom Hahn and Los Angeles Clippers owner Steve Ballmer announced the arena project on Tuesday, clearing the way for the arena to be built in Inglewood.

The arena will be a 19,000-square-foot facility that will include a world-class basketball arena, practice facility and team offices for the L.A. Clippers.

The arena will be built on a 10-acre site in Inglewood, which is currently used as a parking lot for the Los Angeles Convention Center.

Opinion: Can Working Parents Still Teach Their Kids at Home?

By Steve Kim

Working parents often face the challenge of balancing their careers with their family responsibilities. This is especially true for parents who want to provide a home education for their children.
