Subject: RE: Public Access Question

Hi Brian,

I've reached out to Mindy via text regarding this email. In the interim, I did check the City website and loaned the a service provided in the Inglewood libraries is access to public computers, based on availability, and "Library patrons bringing their own computers or notebooks may access the free wi-fi connection to the internet". We are not able to confirm until Monday if, 1) the Libraries can provided a dedicated public computer for this purpose or 2) if Planning Department can provided a dedicated computer for use by the public for this purpose.

Gordon.

Subject: Public Access Question

Gordon, Mindy:

We are trying to assess our options for the Appendices. One relevant question that has been asked is whether the public would be able to access the document via a computer at City Hall and/or the City libraries. So, if someone shows up at the Planning Department, and asks to review the DEIR, is there a computer available for them to use to review the document, or are they limited to reviewing a hard copy? Same for libraries.

Please let us know ASAP.

Thank you.

Brian
